

The Importance of a Q4 Reset & Refocus

September is a great time to reset and refocus after the summer months. There is a 'back to school' feeling as we settle into our work life routines. It is important to review the year to date and reset the priorities to deliver the important things in Q4.

This talk provides ideas and motivation for teams to work together to reset and make plans for the last 4 months of the year.

Topics

The following topics are covered:

- Tips to reset mindset, plans and work routines after the summer months
- How to prioritise the most important goals & projects
- How to plan ahead to get the most from your time in Q4

A screenshot of a spreadsheet titled 'Q4 Planner 2022'. The spreadsheet is designed for planning actions from September to December. It features a grid with columns for each month and rows for actions. The first column is labeled 'Week Start' and 'Target Date'. The subsequent columns are labeled 'September', 'October', 'November', and 'December', each with sub-columns for specific dates (e.g., 05, 12, 19, 26). The spreadsheet is divided into three sections, each starting with a '1. Goal or Priority' row, followed by four 'Action' rows. A note at the top right says 'Fill the square in the target week to gain an overview of your work plan'. A note at the top left says 'Insert more lines below for extra actions as required'.
